

Tanya Street is an international speaker and talk show host. She has served in numerous community outreach organizations such as; New Jersey Women Aids Network as a board member, South Jersey Aids Alliance as an outreach coordinator (award recipient of both organizations), founder of Women Empowering Women (NJ) support group, Administrator of GIRL TALK life spoken ministries (NC), a talk show host for Joy In Our Town shown on WTPC, Virginia Beach, a survivor awareness presenter for various anti-sex trafficking organizations, Board Member of Love and Justice International, and finally founder of her own non-profit organization called Identifiable Me.

Tanya has her own story of being trafficked when she was ending her senior year in high school and is now telling her story in order to bring awareness and to ultimately eradicate trafficking in our nation and in our day. Passionately, Tanya consistently seeks opportunities to network with communities, inspire change, and share the message of love, hope, and forgiveness. Tanya and her husband Edwin live in Virginia and have 3 wonderful children.
